IMMENSE COTTON WARE-HOUSES.—The Cotton Exchange have under consideration, with a view of speedy action in the matter, a plan to establish warehouses on the water front for the reception, inspection and compression of cotton. It is proposed that these warehouses shall be made large enough to hold all cotton that will be in the city at any one time. The average in store in this city is 60,000 bales, but the capacity will probably be for 200,000 bales at one time. The warehouses and sheds are to be fire proof, covered, to enable receipts and deliveries in any weather, and the whole enclosed so that all outsiders can be kept out and thefts of cotton from the bales prevented. Stealing small amounts of cotton from bales has got to be such an annoyance that it involves probably an average loss of one to two pounds to the bale every time it is moved. Some bales lose ten pounds. It is proposed that these warehouses be established upon and near piers where the water is deep enough to permit the largest steamers to load and unload, thus saving expense of hauling to store. It is presumed that the larger part of the cotton would be shipped from the warehouse to destination, but steam lighters would be in readiness at all times to deliver cotton at any given point at a cost of not over 25 cents per bale. The employees all to be appointed by the Cotton Exchange, except the laborers necessary to the handling of the cotton, and all cotton to be inspected and graded when the bands are off in the act of compressing. It is believed that this would finally do away with the necessity of second sampling, inspection and classification, and that it would only be necessary to have it reweighed on redelivery. The cotton to be stored in fireproof compartments, not to exceed 5,000 bales to each, thus materially lessening the fire risk. It is claimed that there will be much greater security and that half the cost of handling will be saved, and thefts effectually prevented. It is estimated that the buildings alone will cost nearly $500,000.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

Brigham Young has been interviewed. He says that the Mormons were the first to suggest the idea of building a railroad from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and that as far back as 1832 the Territorial Legislature had memorialized Congress on the subject. Before the days of the railroad he erected a cotton mill at Salt Lake, the machinery of which was transported across the Plains and mountains by ox teams. The cotton used in the Mormon factories is grown in Southern Utah, and is fully equal to that raised in Tennessee. Young added that he is now experimenting on the propagation of fish and oysters in the river Jordan, and hopes to succeed. The first intimation he had of Utah was from Fremont's book, in which the General described Salt Lake, stating that it was salt at the northern end and fresh at the southern end. This was a mistake, caused by the fact that Fremont, in going westward, passed the northern extremity of Salt Lake, and in returning passed Utah Lake, which is further south, and fresh. From Fremont's book, aided by information given by Indians and hunters, Brigham Young was enabled to find the lake, near the shores of which he founded a great city.

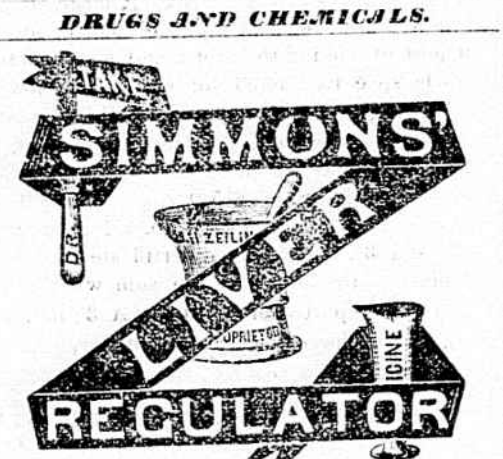

Got His "CIVIL RIGHTS."—By a telegram from Putneyburg, Conn., we learn that on Sunday evening as Mr. J. R. Hutchings, of Lynchburg, was walking down one of the streets of that town, holding an umbrella over himself, he was joined by a negro, who passed his arm through Mr. H.'s and proposed to accompany him. Mr. Hutchings jerked loose from him and demanded to know what he meant? He was answered, "Hi! hasn't you heard the civil rights bill does passed?" Mr. Hutchings struck him with his umbrella, when the negro made an effort to get a rock, but Hutchings being too quick for him picked up the rock and knocked the negro down with it, when the black scoundrel beat a hasty retreat.

The search for pirates' treasure on Coos Island, off the coast of Panama, is prompted by the narrative of one John Swinton, a mariner of Liverpool, England, who says that in 1818 he was coxswain of a vessel which was fitted out on Montevideo against Spanish commerce. In the Pacific, off the coast of Guantamala, they captured a galleon loaded with treasure, and hid the money in the sands of Coos Island. The treasure was gold doubloons in cedar boxes, Spanish dollars, and chests of silver plate. It took ten trips of the launch to get the money on shore. The privateer was afterwards captured off the coast of Chili by a Spanish frigate called the Provo, and Swinton is the only survivor.

SINGULAR SUICIDE.—A dispatch dated Andes, Delaware county, N. Y., gives the following particulars of a very determined suicide at that place: "A Mrs. Eulhaus, of New York, who was spending the summer months with friends in this village, had of late been very much depressed on account of the death of her husband. She had been observed on several occasions to measure the depth of a small brook which ran behind the house at which she was staying. On Friday morning she left her room, went to the brook, and deliberately held her head under the water. Fifteen minutes later she was discovered in this position, and life was extinct."

CHOLERA MIXTURE.—F. M. H. sends the following to the London Mirror: "At this season, when there is so much tendency to diarrhoea, arising from the too free use of melons and fruits, it may be well for every housekeeper to have the following mixture on hand. It has been pronounced by careful persons who have used it for months past, invaluable:—Tincture of opium; tincture of rhubarb; tincture of camphor; tincture of capsicum, essence of peppermint; in equal proportions. Dose: Teaspoonful."

The great Methodist camp meeting at Sea Cliff, Long Island, seems to be quite as attractive and interesting as the one recently held at Round Lake, N. Y. The meeting is being participated in by the leading Methodist divines of the Church, North and South. There are about one hundred outcamps on the camp ground and several French roofs, some with piazzas above and below, and some with observatories, and all with adornments of bay windows and wings to match.

Nearly all diseases originate from Indigestion and Torpidity of the Liver, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the Liver is regulated in its action, health is almost invariably secured. Want of action in the Liver causes Headache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the Shoulders, Cough, Chills, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, bad taste in the mouth, bilious attacks, palpitation of the heart, depression of spirits, or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms, for which SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR is the best remedy that has ever been discovered. Its acts mildly, effectively, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way; it has been used for FORTY YEARS, and hundreds of the good and great from all parts of the country will vouch for its being the purest and best.
